Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this module, a student will be able to:

1. Spoken Production and Interaction.
2. The learner is expected to be able to: exploit a wide range of simple language to deal with most situations likely to arise while travelling; sustain a reasonably straightforward description of one of a variety of subjects within his / her field of interest in a reasonably fluent manner; deliver short rehearsed announcements on a topic pertinent to everyday occurrences in his / her field which, despite possibly very foreign stress and intonation, are nevertheless clearly intelligible.
3. Writing
4. The learner is expected to be able to: write straightforward connected texts on a range of familiar subjects within his / her field of interest.
5. Listening
6. The learner is expected to be able to: understand straightforward factual information about common everyday or job-related topics, identifying general messages, provided speech is clearly articulated in a generally familiar accent; generally follow the main points in an informal discussion with friends provided speech is clearly articulated in standard dialect; follow many shorter films in which visuals and actions carry much of the story line and when the delivery is relatively slow and clear.
7. Reading
8. The learner is expected to be able to: understand shorter texts related to work, school, leisure etc. in which a sequence of familiar events is described in relatively simple and familiar language; find and understand relevant information in everyday materials/signs/timetables/notices etc. encountered while travelling in countries where the language is spoken.

Learning and Teaching Methods

- Interactive seminars will be the main teaching approach. A variety of media will be used in the teaching process (traditional print materials, audio and video material, CALL programmes and online language learning resources). The course will be characterised by a high level of student participation in both classroom activities and self-directed learning activities outside the classroom.
